ROBERT BOLIVAR DEPUGH, AT 47, FOR ALLEGED POSSESSION OF UNREGISTERED FIREARMS: THE MAXIMUM—10 YEARS ON EACH COUNT: 90 YEARS!

ROXANE DEPUGH, HIS DAUGHTER, AGE 7, NORBORNE, MISSOURI.

SAD, SAD CHRISTMAS

It was another cold and cheerless Christmas Eve in the household of American Patriot, Robert Bolivar DePugh, at Norborne, Missouri.

The crushing fact that here there would be no Christmas ever when "Santa Claus" was not confined to a federal prison, perhaps in "solitary", prompted Ramona, the wife, to take Roxane, the seven-year-old daughter, and soul-mate of her absent father, early to bed in the hope that sleep could dull the pangs of sorrow and loneliness that pierced the hearts of both.

But to sleep so early on Christmas Eve? It was not possible, so together they cried until their pillows were wet with tears.

Roxane: "Mother, why do those old men in the black dresses hate my daddy?" "Hush, child, and go to sleep. We've talked of this before."

doesn't it?"

Ramona, for answer, only sobs desolate and lonely, for to the questions of the youngest of her now fatherless family of six—three boys and three girls—God only knows the answers.

GUILT BY PROXY

Reporting court proceedings wherein DePugh was found guilty of firearms violations, the Albuquerque Tribune, on September 26, 1970, reads:

U. S. Atty. Victor Ortega, in his final closing argument, contended it wasn't incumbent on the government to prove personal possession of the unregistered weapons.

arms, when others do, why is he sent to prison while they are free?" (No answer)

"Why isn't Golda Meier in jail? The papers say Mr. Nixon gave her arms - did he mama?" (Still no answer.) "And Castro. Didn't Castro and his helpers get and use arms from us when they robbed and murdered all those Cubans? Why isn't Castro in prison like my daddy is? Didn't he kill and rob? My daddy, never killed or robbed anyone, did he, mama?" "No, but please, darling, hush and go to sleep."

"But, Mama, doesn't the Constitution mean what it says? My daddy says it says the right to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed. What's 'infringed'?"

Ramona: "Infringed means to violate or transgress, to encroach or trespass."

Roxane: "Then why did all those judges send my daddy to jail?"

"They say the U. S. Constitution doesn't mean what it used to mean, darling."

"Then, if it doesn't—who changed it?"

"The judges do that—the new judges."

"The new judges, Mama, who are they?"

"Federal judges, my child, are picked by the President. He can change judges."

"If he does that, then a bad man can change the law. Is that right?"

"No. There are nine judges on the highest court and five of them can change the law."

"Now really if that's so, one man makes the law - for if four think it's one way and four think it's another, one decides what the law is? Right, Mama?" "Yes, but please go to sleep."

"I'm dreaming of my daddy, mother."

What's SOLITARY confinement?"

"I'm not sure. It's what they do to prisoners who are very bad."

"When papa is kept fifty days in SOLITARY confinement, does it hurt?"

"It's supposed to hurt, honey."

"Why do the judges who put my father in jail want to hurt him even more while he's there? How could they want to punish him more than to put him in that awful cage like he was a baboon or a bear? He said the U. S. Constitution says the right shall not be infringed. Well, mama, it does say that, and that was Robert Bolivar DePugh," said Mr. Ortega.

Ortega, said all of the firearms, which included home-made grenades and mines, were unregistered firearms.

Federal Law

These weapons, all listed in the nine-count indictment, are all firearms and should have been registered with the National Firearms and Transfer Record established by the 1968 National Firearms Act, said Ortega.

"Our society is not like that of 1776 when one could run out and grab his musket," said Ortega. "Today our society is quite fragile. As you heard Mr. DePugh say on that tape, 25 cents worth of material can do a great deal of damage and that is why Congress enacted the National Firearms Act," he added.

By such distortions of the law in argument of counsel, convictions of American patriots are obtained in courts now so tightly packed that even President Nixon can't unpack them.

One member of the U. S. Supreme Court retired from his seat on the court to serve as prosecutor in the infamous Nuremberg trials. Another, Chief Justice Earl Warren, now retired, digressed from his duty to serve as police investigator and white-wash and conceal the facts relevant to the murder of President John F. Kennedy.

Warren now retired at an increased salary, apparently having failed in obtaining promotion to preside over a UN Court on Mt. Scopus, is busy conducting secret lectures at George Washington University at Washington, D. C., which only the select few are permitted to attend.

The endless harassment of Robert B. DePugh conforms overall to standards of justice established in the "Keelhaul" operations, details of which are carefully blacked out in the AP (Agit-Prop). The trial of Adolph Eichman in Israel for crimes alleged to have been committed in Germany before the courts of Israel were established evidence the sadistic attitudes of the new concepts of international and national jurisprudence.

N. B.: Funds for the defense of Robert Bolivar DePugh are urgently needed. To review his sentence on appeal to the Tenth Circuit Court alone will require not less than $3,500; his family needs help desperately. Contributions should be sent to Mrs. Robert DePugh, P. O. Box 68, Norborne, Missouri 64668.

A Letter to the President

June 15, 1970

Honorable Richard M. Nixon
President of the United States
The White House
Washington, D. C. 20515

Re: United States vs. Robert
Bolivar DePugh.

Dear Mr. President:

This respectfully directs your attention to a criminal case pending in the courts of the United States, wherein, to me, it appears the principle of equal and exact justice to all is being disregarded.

There are, Mr. President, collateral facts which tend to indicate that Robert Bolivar DePugh is being and has been persecuted in the courts of the United States

The brochures I enclose indicate the extreme laxity of the federal and other courts when confronted with situations in which communist-oriented criminals are defendants. So uniform have been federal court decisions evidencing leniency toward communists, careful students of American jurisprudence are lead to conclude that the avowed enemies of this Republic are favorites of the law. On the other hand, they are justified in believing that "Extremists on the Right", to which class Robert Bolivar DePugh belongs, are treated with great severity.

May I illustrate, Mr. President, by pointing out that in one case in a U. S. Court, when Manuel and Lucille Miller, of Bethel, Vermont, interested themselves in exposing communist activity in the vicinity of their home, it was they and not the communists who ended up as convicts. He was sent to the federal penitentiary for attempting to protect her from judicial abuse; she was convicted and sentenced, but put on probation on condition that she tend to her housework and thereafter write what the federal judge thought she should, since she had, as he finally concluded, a brilliant mind!

Punishment to which Lucille Miller (who wrote well but not what a federal judge thought she should write) was subjected, included confinement for observation in an insane asylum to determine if she was competent to aid in her own defense.

The maltreatment of Lucille Miller and her husband, Manuel, at the hands of a federal judge, coincided with that to which General Edwin A. Walker of Dallas, Texas was subjected some years later. Walker was arrested on charges later found unwarranted. Excessive bail ($100,000.00) was fixed. Walker was denied opportunity to make bail and the assistance of counsel. Like Lucille Miller, he, too, was committed on trumped-up hearsay and incompetent evidence for mental observation to determine whether he, also, was so bereft of reason he could not assist in his own defense.

When Walker was being held in custody unjustly, illegally and in gross disregard of his constitutional rights, Robert Bolivar DePugh, who lived not too far from Springfield, as a private citizen interested himself in Walker's defense. DePugh organized and lead pickets of private citizens in protest against such abuse of Walker by federal judges.

Is it likely that with that the case, any can be found among them to give him a fair trial? When enemies of this Republic were boldly flaunting their flags at the base of the Liberty Monument in Kansas City, Missouri, it was DePugh's view that those who slaughter Americans in Vietnam, in Korea, and elsewhere all over the earth, should not be so honored by the administration at Washington.

DePugh was also instrumental in thwarting a carefully laid propaganda scheme, the object of which was to convert Liberty Monument on the plaza near Union Station in Kansas City from the purpose to which it was dedicated, and to make of it a sign and symbol of a perpetual union between the United States and her enemies!

I write suggesting that you direct the Department of Justice forthwith to dismiss all proceedings against Robert Bolivar DePugh on broad grounds of public policy.

No man should be prosecuted, penalized and harassed for trying to defend the United States of America in her hour of peril.

It is presumptively impossible for Robert Bolivar DePugh to have a fair and impartial trial in the courts of the United States as presently constituted.

In this connection, may I respectfully point out that you, yourself, have Roxane, seven year old daughter of the imprisoned head of the American Minutemen, Robert Bolivar DePugh. Girls of this age and mothers like hers, Ramona, need the protection of men with weapons possibly more than when their forefathers wrote the Constitution.

Federal judges who so jealously guard the rights of those who publish smut, commit rape or murder, and promote sedition appear to harbor grudges against Americanists like DePugh—and the Millers, the General Edwin A. Walkers and the Lt. Calleys!

DePugh, himself a war veteran, and father of a U. S. Marine, is the author of "Blue Print For Victory", "Critique of Objectivism" and like scholarly discourses that offend the far left.

DePugh, recognizing that lawyers selected or appointed to represent him, will be acting under the overall direction of some federal judge, has waived his right to assistance of counsel. This he was compelled to do because the federal judges have decided that assistance of counsel as provided in the Sixth Amendment obliges one charged with crime either to submit his case to the control of his attorney or forego legal assistance entirely.

The charge against DePugh which will be before the court in the State of New Mexico, involves the constitutional right of the people to keep and bear arms in their own defense. It cannot be demonstrated that a single human life or constitutional right has been infringed, threatened, or damaged by anything DePugh has done. It may well be that he is an "extremist on the right" in the strictest sense.

This nation needs more like him. If we had, our leaders might not be vainly and in secret suing for peace in Paris, Helsinki and Vienna, from those who enslave, torture and murder our sons in Vietnam and Cambodia and mock us in Cuba, New York and Washington, and in our own courts as well.

Toward communists, Mr. President, the federal courts have extended great leniency. They are held not answerable for an intent to overthrow the U. S. government. Should then a loyal U. S. citizen, Mr. President, be answerable for an intent and effort however unorthodox to defend the U. S. Government?

Very respectfully,

Glenn O. Young

A POLITICAL PRISONER:

For defending the right of the people to keep and bear arms for their own southerner can qualify to sit on that court.

You are, beyond doubt, mindful of the circumstance that every judge on the federal bench is beholden to Abe Fortas and to his ingenuity as personal consultant for a substantial increase in salary.

You can't be unmindful of the fact that "cronyism" and bias are now advertised as factors that influence the selection of judges. Racism is a consideration; political and religious prejudices make equal and exact justice to all most unlikely.

May I conclude by particularly directing attention to the circumstances in the Tenth Circuit in which Robert Bolivar DePugh will be tried?

One district judge in this circuit has been "impeached" by the circuit judges.

In the court of Judge Luther Bohanon, in the Western District of Oklahoma, wherein the "impeached" federal judge continues to draw his pay and exercise such limited authority as permitted by the Appellate Court, a fourteen year old boy was taken into custody and held a prisoner for eight hours in open and flagrant disregard of his civil rights. No charges were preferred, no right to bail afforded, no lawyer provided. The purpose of the proceeding was to frighten and to intimidate both the boy and his parents. They, too, had been the objects of judicial abuse.

Every federal judge in every case I mention has gone uncensured and unpunished.

GLENN O. YOUNG—

confinement for a total of NINETY years!

DePugh had incurred the animosity of America's Anna Rosenberg Cult, when he and his "Minutemen" broke up a scheme to convert Liberty Memorial Hill in Kansas City from a patriotic shrine to a UN propaganda base. The manner in which he has been hounded since in the name of the law of the land under the Warren Courts has the familiar odor of Adolph Eichman justice.

Whoso doubts that the Red Revolution to make of the U. S. another satellite of the S. U. under the U.N. need only compare the case of Robert Bolivar DePugh with that of Angela Davis or try to reconcile the vigor and effectiveness of the federal judiciary when dealing with Robert DePugh, Lucille Miller, or General Edwin A. Walker with that of the same branch of our federal government when dealing with Jack Ruby.

OUR PRESENT BI-PARTISAN NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION NOMINALLY HEADED BY RICHARD M. NIXON USES FEDERAL MONEY TO quarter felons in plush tourist courts called PRE-RELEASE CENTERS and at the same time busies itself with laws to disarm their victims, hamper law enforcement, foment internal revolution and foster no-win foreign wars.

In the hope of freeing Robert Bolivar DePugh, his friends are attempting to raise $8,500.00 for attorneys fees and costs needed in this last case against him alone. If you and your friends can help, send your mite to Mrs. Robert DePugh, P.O. Box 68, Norborne, Missouri 64668. DePugh is fighting your fight for your constitutional right to have a hand-gun for your own defense.

“MINUTEMEN”

P.O. BOX 68, Norborne, Mo. 64668

“A nation can survive its fools and even the ambitious but it cannot survive treason from within. An enemy at the gates is less formidable, for he is known and he carries his banner openly. But the traitor moves among those within the gates freely, his sly whispers rustling through all the alleys, heard in the very halls of government itself. For the traitor is no traitor, speaks in the accents familiar to his victims. He wears their faces and their garments, and he appeals to the baseness that lies deep in the heart of all men. He rots the soul of a nation; he works secretly and unknown in the night, to undermine the pillars of a city. He infects the body politic so that it can no longer resist. A murderer is less to be feared.”

— Cicero

Many of you have received letters from the so-called ‘reorganized Minutemen’ and have been sent report forms to fill out and send into new addresses. You have been told the Norborne office is no longer functioning and those who work there are pimps and dupes.

The reprinted letter will show clearly how the Norborne office felt about Jesse Stephens. This man decided to take over the organization in spite of any opposition we gave him. He admits using all of Mr. DePugh’s material but has trampled on Mr. DePugh for poor security and cast him aside like a rotten apple. Mr. Stephens also used the name of the Minutemen to build up his own following. He has reached his peak by recent publicity in newspapers. He needed to put himself over as the head of the Minutemen and to attract more members nationally.

However, he did not identify himself at his first press conference by his real name but as George Vanness. Why? The reprinted articles are for your information.

Reprints of Jesse Stephen’s guerrilla organizational structure have been sent to us. Quoted are the psychological requirements of all members, both men and women:

- ‘1. Full understanding, agreement, and willingness to kill human or animal when it is absolutely necessary to protect the organization, or its projects.
2. To be willing and prepared, mentally, to undergo torture and pain if captured in order not to reveal classified information to the enemy.
- ‘3. Female members of the underground, should be prepared to use their bodies when and if the need should come to withhold any and all classified information or to use the sexual methods to obtain information from the enemy when it is urgently important.
4. Be prepared to withstand extreme levels of hunger, pain, cold, heat or any types of physical exertion, and-or physical and mental stresses of all kinds.
5. Be prepared to give up personal freedom, families, homes, or all material possessions and even your lives if it should ever become necessary.
- ‘6. To forfeit ones’ own life by suicide, in order to withstand painful torture, in order to keep classified information from falling into the hands of the enemy.
7. Be prepared to kill members of ones own family to prevent them from being tortured, raped, beaten, or mistreated in any way for an extended period or time.
8. Women members, not married, and women having lost their husbands in the resistance movement, should be willing and prepared to give the needed sexual relief to those members of their resistance networks, that do not have wives with them, or that have’ confirmed female partners.

WE WILL NEVER SURRENDER

9. All members will cease and desist from all drinking of beer, wines and whiskey. This is a potential danger to the security of the group.

10. Any member of the resistance organizations must be prepared to meet the end of their existence on this earth, immediately upon discovery of their being informants and/or infiltrators.'

DePugh's Minutemen have been called kooks, gun nuts, radicals, but these psychological requirements quoted can only attract membership whose activities can only result in the ridiculous or sheer madness.

We quote also from a letter of December 17, 1970: 'We shall dissent legally, and if we are not heard, then we shall help the dissenters from the New Left gain their goal.' What does this mean to an American patriot? Does one suddenly desert his stand and join the opposition? There is only one path for the American patriot and that is to stick to his principles.

You will note in the printed material that Jesse refers to white supremacy. The race issue has never been one of the basic tenets of the Minutemen organization. The main objective is to oppose communism. In literature put out by the DePugh Minutemen, members have been advised not to participate in riots because this is what the communists want to promote. It has also been written that the colored are being used by the communists to promote trouble. (see On Target, June 1, 1964.)

In all of the 'Reorganized Minutemen' material there is a note of belligerence, and if followed, will certainly promote the trouble that is needed in the country for a complete dictatorial government takeover. Think about this.

Quoting again from one of the reprinted articles: 'When the communists come, he (Jesse) predicted, our families will be left behind and we will head for the hills. . . . we will never surrender.' These men may head for the hills but the communists may well take over the cities and stay there. Heading for the hills under these circumstances would not indicate anything patriotic or valorous.

These are difficult times. Americans are frustrated and bewildered. It is very important that you know your friends and more so, that you understand yourself. Naturally, patriots like to congregate but in doing so, they must be sure they associate with groups who are really trying to uphold our American heritage and are not fomenting more disorder than there already is.

The only way this country will survive is through the steadfastness of honest, hard working men and women; stable and logical citizens that are trustworthy to uphold our American way of life in a rational and commendable way no matter what the odds.

Many of you may wonder at this point why we did not come out more strongly in opposition to Jesse Stephens and his movement. These men cannot be stopped; besides Stephens is only a part of a plan to take over the entire organization. He has now made his move and we are in a position to separate the good from the bad. Now is the time for you to decide which path you wish to follow.

Minuteman Group Is Reorganized

GEORGE VANNESSE
... Minuteman speaks

By Jim Mann
Washington Post Staff Writer
A man who identified himself as the East Coast spokesman for the right-wing Minuteman organization called a press conference yesterday to announce that the paramilitary group has reorganized under new leadership.

George VanNess, 46, of Hyattsville, declared that the Minutemen will now be independent of their jailed former leader, Robert B. DePugh, and it will be an avowedly white supremacist organization.

VanNess said he would be the "liaison between the organization, which he said will remain "underground," and the public. Under DePugh, he said, the organization had been "too undercover."

The press conference was held at a Hot Shoppes Restaurant in the White Oak section of Montgomery County.

VanNess said he had invited the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Marine Corps to attend. But besides VanNess and two reporters, the only parties attracted to the press conference were two men, one of whom later identified himself to reporters as an FBI agent.

Unnoticed by VanNess,

the two sat behind him at a nearby table in the restaurant, occasionally craning their necks in an apparent effort to overhear.

'Sort of a Shock'

Queried by a reporter after VanNess departed, one of the men acknowledged he was an FBI agent.

"It was sort of a shock to us," the agent said. "They've been inactive locally."

"We found out about the conference from a UPI (United Press International) wire," the agent said. He said that sitting nearby was "the only way we can provide coverage on short notice."

The purpose of the press conference apparently was to begin a new registration drive. VanNess said, "We need the publicity."

The avowed goal of the Minutemen, who model themselves on the Revolutionary War organization, is to prevent a Communist takeover of the United States. VanNess said the group is preparing for "what has happened to Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Hungary."

The group has formed paramilitary units, which go on occasional "maneuvers" and have been involved in a number of incidents, both comic and tragic, in recent years.

VanNess said that about 87 per cent of the Minutemen are ex-Marines who served in World War II. He claimed that the group possesses ammunition, two mobile field hospitals, four communications vehicles and a government-surplus IBM machine for an "intelligence network."

Paramilitary maneuvers, he said, take place "in the mountains."

The long-time Minuteman leader, DePugh, an industrialist from Norborne, Mo., was arrested by the FBI in July, 1969, and is serving a federal sentence for violations of the federal firearms act and bond default.

Minuteman activities have been "greatly reduced" since DePugh's arrest. He estimated the group's national membership at no more than 200 persons.

"Hoover has sold himself out to the Anti-Defamation League," VanNess claimed yesterday. The ADL is a group that combats anti-Semitism.

According to VanNess, about 100 Minutemen from throughout the country met in the Chicago area on Dec. 12 and 13 to reorganize the group.

A flyer with an Elgin, Ill., post office address, which VanNess gave to reporters yesterday, claims that DePugh is no longer capable of running the group.

VanNess said the new leadership has taken charge of files containing lists of 163,000 Minuteman members and will operate without a leader or national headquarters.

Area Membership

He said the organization has about 600 members in the Washington area, but is now disregarding the District of Columbia itself because "there aren't enough of our type left there."

Running down other right-wing organizations, VanNess said the Minutemen oppose the American Nazi Party because it advocates "a junior form of socialism." He said the group is on friendly terms with the Ku Klux Klan.

"We are not against the black man. We are for equal but separate opportunities, as was handed down in the Christian Bible," he said.

President Nixon, VanNess said, has "taken thousands of jobs from white Americans and given them to black Americans." He said that 100 per cent of the Minutemen had backed American Party candidate George Wallace for President in 1968.

When the Communists come, he predicted, "Our families will be left behind and we will head for the hills... We will never surrender."

Prepare for Comeback

Avon Runs

Washington Post Staff

The avowed East Coast spokesman for the right-wing Minuteman organization, who is an avowed white supremacist, now an all-white teen of the town of Br Md., after leading a close a previously int club.

His leadership, which includes the formation of rifle and pistol club girls' karate club leaders, apparently support of much of Br Md., which is near the line off Rhode Island in Prince George's Co.

The man identified self to reporters Monday as George VanNess, a liaison for a reorganized white-supremacist Minuteman group.

Law enforcement confirmed this week

JESSE C. STEPHENS
... used an alias

the man is, in fact, a member of the Minutemen paramilitary organization that advocates preparation for armed guerrilla warfare against an alleged Communist threat.

His real name, however, is not George VanNess, rather Jesse Clayburn Stephens, 46, a World War II hero, Brentwood resident and self-employed electrician.

are the major teen club events. But Stephens claims, and other Brentwood residents confirm, that he has been sponsoring a rifle and pistol club for the teen-agers on Saturday afternoons and Sunday mornings. Stephens says the group uses CO2 guns that he says fire harmless pellets.

He also is about to start a karate class for girls, designed, he says, to teach self-defense in the schools.

Stephens appears to enjoy his involvement with the club, and claims he never mixes it with his political beliefs. "The teen club activities are completely divorced from any political activities," he declares.

"I do not push any right-wing or white supremacist literature on these kids."

Some of Stephens' neighbors agree with that statement. "I have three children in the teen club, and I don't feel he's done anything but help them," Husk says.

"As a policeman, I know this man. And as a neighbor with kids in his teen club, I know this man. I have no complaints with him as director of the teen club."

'Don't Drink Anymore'

Says Trainum, a member of the club: "He's straightened a lot (of youths) out. They don't drink anymore."

Other people are less convinced. Kube recalls several incidents in which he claims Stephens distributed Nazi literature and encouraged youths to use "white power" slogans. Stephens denies this.

"The town's aware of the man. They know what he stands for," Kube says. "But nobody will stand up against him."

Glascock asserts, "I don't know what you can do to stop him. He causes a lot of trouble if you buck him . . ."

"He don't say nothing (political), to the kids because we don't let him. We always have someone with him so he doesn't put crazy things into kids' heads."

Another Brentwood resident has another explanation. "The neighbors are afraid of him, and I am too," she says.

Says De Pugh Still Runs Minutemen

By Michael J. Satchell

A Member of The Star's Staff

The wife of Robert Bolivar DePugh, imprisoned leader of the Minutemen, discounted last night a report from Washington yesterday that a dissident faction of the militant, right-wing national organization had taken control.

Mrs. Ramona Van DePugh said that as far as she was concerned, Norborne, Mo., was still national headquarters and her husband, although in jail, was still in charge.

She added that she had never heard of George Van Ness, northeast regional co-ordinator, who announced yesterday at a press conference in Washington that his group had taken over and was planning several changes.

Contacted at her Norborne home, Mrs. DePugh did acknowledge that there had been a power struggle to take over the organization and that it had intensified since DePugh was ordered to prison in September on gun charges.

"Relations weren't good between them," (the northeast group) Mrs. DePugh said. "They called themselves the Superior Minutemen and they were building their own organization using Bob's tactics and material."

Part of the new credo for the Minutemen, Van Ness said yesterday in Washington, would be to state openly that the organization believed in white superiority and that blacks and Jews must earn their rights to equality.

"We have never had any racism in the Minutemen," Mrs. DePugh countered. "I don't know what this other group is doing. We are strictly anti-Communist, nothing else."

Observers of Minutemen activities here see yesterday's development as significant in that internal difficulties are surfacing in public for the first time.

Van Ness held his press conference yesterday at a small restaurant in suburban Washington. He faced newsmen with a large cigar in his mouth and a can of chemical spray of the type used by police officers, at his belt.

He said that on December 12 and 13 a group of 100 Minutemen met in Chicago and decided there would be no national organization but 10 regional groups.

"We are sick and tired of internal dissension," he said. "There is and was internal dissension caused by greed and avarice by the DePugh crowd."

He also charged there had been misappropriation of funds.

Van Ness said the Minutemen would strive to gain a better public image and promote general sympathy and understanding by the patriotic American public in the organization's work. He also claimed the group now had 163,000 dues-paying members. The FBI says it has 5,000 or fewer.

Countering Van Ness's claims, the wife of the Minuteman founder said that although her husband was now unable to exercise any direct control, he had left trusted regional leaders in key positions.

"There has been a lot of personal jealousy by people around the country over Bob's position," Mrs. DePugh declared. "These northeast people have been using Minutemen methods to recruit people. They say that security has been poor, and that now Bob is in jail, they have to take over . . . That just isn't possible. He has his people in key positions."

Mrs. DePugh said she could not discuss her current role in Minutemen and declined to name any of the regional leaders. In the past, she has been quite active in the group's affairs.

Norborne, she added, is still the national headquarters because On Target, the organization's publication, still is published there by Robert Taylor and the Minutemen have their spiritual roots there. Taylor is out of town for the holidays.

"I also want to go on record and say that racism is not part of the Minutemen philosophy," Mrs. DePugh added.

nature. He stated that if YOUNG did take a particular flair to a certain cause that he would then publish an article in his American Adviser in support of this cause. [REDACTED] stated that it was his opinion that this was possibly the case concerning the article on DEPUGH.

[REDACTED] stated that YOUNG delights in publishing "touchy stories" and articles and it would more than delight him to find out the FBI was conducting an investigation concerning him as it would provide him the opportunity of publishing stories alleging the FBI is wasting their time investigating him and "failing to put communists in jail".

In view of the above reflecting that YOUNG is a prominent attorney approximately 80 years of age and is in no way an active extremist, it is being recommended that this case be closed on SAC authority.

Shotgun Halts Pipeline

By Elaine Vitt
Staff Writer

Twice in the past two weeks, Glenn O. Young has stood sentry at the gate of his farm near Sparks to keep bulldozers and tractors from burying an oil line in his property.

Young, an 80-year-old retired special judge, said he armed himself with a shotgun and a 22-caliber pistol to keep workers from Seaway Pipeline Corp. from burying the three-fourths mile line, were put there in part of a project originating in Freeport, Tex., and ending in Cushing. "This is the spot where the war began," Young said Sunday, pointing to a gate marked by an American flag.

Young claims the company, owned by six major oil companies, has no legal right to cross his land. The trenches and pipe already on his land his absence, Young said. Jerry Lathrop, assistant district attorney said the Seaway corporation was given the right to cross the Young land in an earlier hearing in district court.

Officers from Lincoln County sheriff's office were called to the Young farm when Young pointed his shotgun at the pipeline workers, but no legal action was taken at the time, officials said.

The pipeline is a joint effort of Phillips Petroleum Co. and Continental Oil Co.

Phillips designed and is overseeing construction of Freeport, Tex., terminals and the oil terminal in Cushing, a Phillips official said. The company is also in charge of awarding contracts for laying the pipes, he said.

Continental is overseeing the building of pumping stations at intervals along the pipeline.

Phillips attorney Steve Johnson declined to comment on the case since civil litigation involving the Young property is in progress, he said.

"They (S e a w a y) have not served me with any legal papers; they have not given me any condemnation papers," Young said.

Young said corporation representatives offered him only $10 for crossing his property and did not attempt to negotiate "as the law requires."

Young said, in digging the pipe trenches, the bulldozers "filled in my irrigation ditches."

Young, publisher for the American Adviser newsletter of Landowners Protective Association, said he purchased his 480-acre farm in pieces beginning in 1951.

"If you had seen the land then, it would have seemed worthless," he said. "But I am a reclamation expert, if I do say so myself."

Young added a house, barn and three ponds to the property as well as smoothed "impassable ditches," he said.

"These trespassers are going to destroy America," he contended.

When Young bought the acreage, he also purchased half of the mineral rights. "The other half stayed with the original owners."

"I have built this land up into a model farm. I will fight to keep my land," he said.

Young said he has sown several types of grasses to improve grazing land for his Charolais cattle. "But now I can't graze my cattle here. I have to keep them all in Sapulpa."

He said he doesn't live on the farm but goes there when he can. The former judge, who "pioneered in every spot of the country," said he would not give up his cause until "those trespassers give me a court order from the state Supreme Court. They have not produced any proper process from the courts."

Contempt Charge Cites Armed Foe of Pipeline

By Elaine Vitt
SPARKS — When Glenn O. Young returns to his 480-acre farm near Sparks Tuesday, a contempt citation will be waiting for him, Young said Monday.

Court records show a citation was issued Monday for Young's "disobeyance of a court ruling" when he stopped workers from Seaway Pipeline Corp. at gunpoint from burying a pipeline on his land.

Richard Steed, Shawnee attorney for Seaway, said a temporary order restraining Young from interfering with the pipe laying was issued before the confrontation between Young and the workers.

"That order is still in full force and effect," Steed said.

The three-fourths-mile pipeline that runs through Young's property is part of a line being built from Freeport, Tex., to Cushing by Seaway a corporation part-owned by seven major oil companies.

Young charges that the corporation has no legal right to enter his property and that the pipes already on his farm were put there in his absence.

When Young ran the workers off his land, he said, "they promised not to come back until they had a court order from the Supreme Court."

Two cases are pending in district court in the matter—a condemnation suit against the Young land by Seaway and a $60,000 damage suit against Seaway by Young.

No trial date has been set for either case.

The pipeline is a joint project of Phillips Petroleum Co. and Continental Oil Co., with Phillips handling the pipe-laying.

Phillips attorney Jim Robertson said he could not comment on the case since it is currently in court but explained that "under certain circumstances, when you have followed the statutes, you reach a point" when the workers can enter the land, although the court decision has not been made.

Young said he did not know what he would do when confronted by the workers again Tuesday.

"Why should I (let them on the land)?" Young said. "I don't know why they don't just go down to the Supreme Court like they said."

"I can't believe they'd (Phillips) violate an agreement like we had," he added.

Young said he had never been served with proper court papers, including condemnation papers.

"They never served me with process in the condemnation case. I have not received any orders from the Supreme Court," he said.

"Each of these things will be before the Supreme Court," Young said.
